

Pantry Pick: McClure's Spicy Garlic Pickles

BY LORA ZARUBIN

My grandmother used to make homemade pickles, and once you've had them homemade, it's hard to be satisfied with mass-produced pickles. McClure's are seriously homemade. They are what you want pickles to taste like: hot, garlicky and full of dill, so that they are stronger than sandwich you pair them with. But be warned: McClure's are not for the faint of palate. Most first-timers bite into one and immediately say, "Whoa!". $12.

Buy it: murrayscheese.com